#1 Margie Smeller
Margie loves rendering landscapes in sharpie, and may reserve the right to sneak in a mini poem, an adorable arsenal of little espresso cups, or a bed of flowers. If you asked her to just put the most exquisite tableware and sweetest candy on paper for you, she'd gladly to that, too.

#2 Iragi Nkere
Iragi offers you his own meticulous version of your favorite artwork in watercolor or colored pencil. He's made several inspired by well-known pieces found at the BMA, and also depicts Power Rangers equally well as a Jimson Weed, if that helps seal the deal for you.

#3 Bess Lumsden
If you want to do yourself a favor and have your home exterior or interior reimagined as a creepy lair of horror, Bess will deliver. An acquired taste for sure, but some tastes are worth acquiring!

#4 Louis Middleton
In his own words, Louis is the guy for "your favorite landscape picture from the internet or from a place you have visited", and likes to execute it in colored pencil or watercolor.

#5 Tyrone Weedon
Tyrone portrays people, from family members to celebrities, with great attention to detail. He does so with a wide array of materials, from markers and colored pencils to watercolor and acrylic.

#6 Erika Clark
Erika enjoys making gentle and skilled renderings of your favorite landscape or botany in watercolor or colored pencil and will give it an unmistakably mystical touch.

#7 Tyrone Weedon
Tyrone portrays people, from family members to celebrities, with great attention to detail. He does so with a wide array of materials, from markers and colored pencils to watercolor and acrylic.

#8 Kareem Samuels
Kareem loves to create portraits of your friends, family and everyone’s favorite celebrities with bright, bold acrylics and confident black lines, kind of like if Piet Mondrian didn’t use straight lines and embraced the innocence of every face. Always a joy.
